THE YELLS FROM THE ENGLISH BONDHOLDERS-SILVER A PLAN

TO ROB THE CREDITOR. Now comes from Washington the statement that the Secretary of the Treasury is favorable to the restoration of the silyer dollar. * * The same ramor, incredible as it seemed, was some days ago * put into circulation respecting the President, and to this hour there has been no denial. * * The spectacle would indeed be strange if Mr. Hayes, after valiantly fighting the greenback heresy in his own State, were to use the large influence of his present position to attempt. ence of his present position to strengthen a movement which, morally and eco-nomically, is quite as bad as the one which Mr. Pendleton was for a time the leader. * * As regards Mr. Sherman's alleged surrender, it is significant only because of the official power he wields, and the sense of responsibility which should be evident in his course. His views upon financial questions have varied with the exigencies which called them forth; and, though himself the au-thor of the Resumption Act, his reported interpretation of its method differs fundamentally from the exposition he gave to the Senate, and from prior declara-tions when the policy of contraction was under consideration. As the President preceded the Secretary in his adhesion to this scheme, we accept the opinions now attributed to the latter as proof that the weight of the Administration is to be exerted in behalf of a measure which has nothing to recommend it save the possibility of partisan use in the fall elections. " Had Mr. Sherman, in the Senate or elsewhere, proclaimed his readiness to help the demagogues who long ago conceived the idea of giving to the United States a coinage which lacks the essential quality of fixedness in value, it is probable that his promotion to the headship of the Treasury would not have exerted in behalf of a measure which headship of the Treasury would not have passed unopposed. * * In Ohio, Republican leaders confessed that their sole hope of carrying the State rests upon a prompt and hearty identification with the movement of which the Democrats claim to have been the originators. * * Old associates of the President journeyed Old associates of the President journeyed from Ohio to beg of him to take this step with the view of saving his party in his own State. Then, and not till then, his love of the old silver dollar became the subject of telegraphic dispatches, and sympathetic western newspapers exulted over the story. Similar influences were at the same time brought to bear upon Mr. Sherman, who is as keenly alive as Mr. Sherman, who is as geenly alive as the President to party considerations in his own State. Close your eyes when talking to an apostle of silver from Ohio or Illinois, and you might fancy yourself listening to Cary or Allen. There, in Indiana and in Ohio, disguise those days and this present time, but it is urged that Jackson had a personal following, joined to the martial glory that enveloped his name, which is wanting in Mr. Tilden. Old Hickory could say with Wallenstein:

Swarm to the old, familiar, long-loyed banners. It is Gen. Grant, by the way, who expects to say this and do lt, in 1880. The unostentations and austere civilian of Grammercy Park is not a warrior, as Schille's hero was, nor yet a Grant or Jacks , albeit the representative of an ides. In 1880 the Democratic camps are not likely to be decolate. Indeed, the military figure can not be made to cover the case at all, for the lack of belliger ency constitutes the chief, if not the only complaint on the part of his supporters And yet, by quite a common paradox, it may constitute an element of strength four years hence. At any rate this can be said if the Democratic party pursues anything like an even tenor in its way, the renomination of Tilden and Hend ricks will be referable almost exclusively to themselves. If they are agreed about it, and desire to try it again, the opportu-nity will not be refused them. They would sweep the country, fore and aft, leaving not a wreck of Radicalism be-hind. To be sure, such spectacles of po-etic justice are rare in real life; but they sometimes come to pass. Shadowy as the suggestion seems, the Democratic party might easily go farther and fare worse. There is a rough sense of fair play in the American character which will perform an important part in the consummation of this design, if it is con-summated. In that event Democrats will be able to console themselves with the thought that it was better after all that Hayes should have made a finish of Grantism, and that the work of civil reform, for which Tilden is peculiarly fit-ted, should have been disentangled of the sectional rubbish piled up by the Be-publican party before the advent of the Democratic party to power.-Louisville Courier-Journal.

ESCAPE OF BILLY CONNERS, 2HE NORTHAMPTON BANK ROBBER

New York, June 13.—Billy Conners, who has been confined in the Ludlow street jail for several months, pending the result of legal proceedings, for his extradition to Massachusetts, on the charge of being one of the gang who gag-ged and bound the cashier of the Nation-al Bank of Northampton, and robbed that institution, escaped this afternoon.

The sheriff's officials express the belief that Conners was provided by some friend, an inmate of the prison, with keys to the doors leading to the street.

"The Antiquarian, of the Conton Demo-crat," is what the Steubenville Gazette calls McGregor. We hope our Steuben-ville brother will be respectful towards the "Antiquarian." He will come around all right, in favor of a greenback Demo-cratic State platform, and afterwards the Steubenville man, will reciprocate, by endorsing a hard money national plat-form, with Tilden for President in 1880. SHERMAN'S THUMBSCREWS.

A Decision that the Bonds Must be Paid in Gold-Silver Won't Do.

Washington, June 13.—Assistant Sec retary of the Treasury French has given an opinion to Secretary Sherman to the effect that all bonds issued since the date when silver was demonetized are payable in gold and not in silver. The publication of this opinion, which has the approval of Secretary Sherman, is authorized by the latter.

PAYMENT OF U. S. BONDS. 1. The act of July 14, 1876, provides for the issue of United States bonds redeemable in coin of the present standard

2. The then legal coin was gold and silver, the standard value being 23 22-100 grains of pure gold to the dollar, and 371; grains pure silver to the dollar. 3. While the law remained unchanged the contract was legally performed by the payment in such standard coin of silver and gold.

4. The act of April 1, 1873, declared silver not to be a tender for such bonds. 5. That act was an element in all sales of bonds after that date by the Government or by individuals, the buyer taking the promise of the United States to pay in coin i. e., coin recognized as legal; i. e.

5. Any act which shall declare silver coin a tender for such bonds is an attempt to insert an element not in the contract, an element expressly excluded by the promiser by the act of 1873.

7. And as it can not be known what bonds have been transferred since the act of 1873, all bonds under the act of 1870 must be paid in gold coin of the standard value named therein, 23 22 100 grains of pure gold to the dollar.

Respectfully submitted, d,] W. F. FRENCH, [Signed,] Assistant Secretary.

WEALTHY YOUNG MAN'S MYS-TERIOUS DESERTION OF HIS BRIDE IMMEDIATELY AFTER MARRIAGE.

James Boyd, a young farmer, and heir to one-sixth of $115,000 estate in O'Hara township, was before Judge Fetterman this morning, on a charge of desertion, preferred by his wife, who was a Miss Miller. Boyd is the young man who, as published in the Leader some time ago, was married to Miss Miller, a prepossesing young lady, last July, and after the ceremony jumped into his buggy and rode home, and has persistently refused to live with her since. A host of witnesses on the side of the lady were in court to-day and testified to the fact of the desertion. A Mr. Boyle testified he had the two acts, the bonds may be redeemed with silver, but that all of them shalf be so redeemed, however great the depreci-ation in silver. * * In reality, theregone to Boyd's house and exposulated with him, and used every persuasion to induce him to live up to his marriage vows, but without avail. He said Boyd was one of a family of six chidren; that fore, the demand for remonetization is a covert scheme for benefitting the debtor at the expense of the creditor, and for his mother was still living; that his part in the estate was $20,000. The father of Miss Miller says he had gone to Boyd's olation of the conditions on which the house the day after the marriage to learn the meaning of his singular behavior, Government sold and the bondholders bought the bonds.—N. Mr. Swartzwelder also counsel for the lady, asked the young man if he had of-fered to take care of his wife in accordance with his marriage vows, to which no satisfactory answer was given, and the case was continued for two weeks.-Pitts.

A TART CORRESPONDENCE.

The following is the correspondence between Marshal Pitkin, of Louisiana, and Attorney General Devens:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, Washington May 4. DEAR SIR-In view of some rearrangement of the Federal offices in Louisiana, it will be agreeable to the Department if you should deem it advisable to offer your resignation of your position of United States Marshal of that district. I mean this as a suggestion for your consideration, as it would, perhaps, be more agreeable to you than to have any change take place without your concurrence. Your obedient servant,

CHARLES DEVENS, Attorney General. U. S. Marshal J. K. Pitkin.

REPLY. New Orleans, May 10, 1877. Honored Siz—I have respectfully to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th inst, and, in view of the fact that my official and personal character stands unchallenged at the Department of Justice of the standard o tice, to express my surprise at the suggestion the letter presents. As notorious efforts, repeatedly announced through the prints, have been made by two or three men from Louisiana most of whom are in general disrepute, to secure my re-moval through traduction, I must decline to tender a resignation, since it might be construed in this, my native State, as a confession of malversation. This view derives emphasis from the "President's" inaugural: "They, the founders of the government, meant that the officer should be secure in his tenure as long as his personal character remain-ed untarnished, and the performance of his duty satisfactory." The official rec-ords and the commendatory mentions from United States Circuit Judge Woods and many other honorable citizens, on and many other honorable citizens, on file in your department, disclose my personal and official standing. A resignation would therefore, be self-impeachment. This my sense of duty alike to my family my friends and myself forbida. I shall retire only when a successor, duly accredited, shall present himself to assume charge of this responsible and thankless office. Permit me to thank you for kindness received at your bands. you for kindness received at your hands, and to remain very respectfully your obedient servant, J. R. G. PITKIN.

HENRY S. MOTT.

The death of Henry S. Mott, a prominent Democratic politician of Pike county, recalls the most eccentric political contest known in Pennsylvania, Mr. Mott had figured actively in the local struggles of his little wilderness county, where the Democracy polled all but a few scattering votes, and had been elected Sheriff as early as Rituer's time, but was refused his commission. In 1852 he emerged from the northeastern forests as a legislator, and made himself so active in the direction of his party at Harrisburg, that he was nominated as Canal Commissioner in 1854 against George Darsie, one of the most popular and respected Whigs in the States. But the Know Nothing leaven had just got to work in both the old par-ties, and it so thoroughly leavened them that the result not only defied all calcuation, but astonished the leaders at its confused, conflicting and frightful ma-jorities. Pollock, Whig. and supported by the secret order, received 204,008 to 167,001 for Bigler for Governor, electing the Whig candidate by 37,007 majority. For Supreme Judge the Know Nothings supported Mr. Baird their own candidate, and gave him 150,576 votes to 167-010 for Black, Democrat, and 78,571 for Smyser, Whig, re-electing Judge Black (then Chief Justice) by 46,444 plurality, although in a majority of 32,137 of the whole vote cast. For Canal Commis-sioner the united Democratic and Know Nothing vote was cast for Mr. Mott, and he received 274,074 votes to 73,331 for Darsie, Whig, who happened to be a for-eigner by birth, giving Mott the unprece-dented majority of 190,743. The Know Nothings supported the Whig candidate for Governor, the Democratic candidate for Canal Commissioner, and their own candidate for Supreme Judge, thus elect-ing two of the Democratic candidates and one of the Whig candidates, and the majorities ranging from 190,743 Demo-cratic to 37,007 Whig, in a poll of less than 375.000 votes. Mr. Mott was crush-ed by his stupendous majority, and he never fully recovered from the wholly unjust suspicion that he had in some way affiliated or coquetted with the new secret order to save his election. He had the confidence of his people at home, however, as was evinced by his election to the Senate in 1860, and to the Constiutional Convention in 1873. He was in feeble health during the sessions of the Convention, and gradually until a few days sgo, when he joined the innumera-ble throng who sleep in the City of the Silent.-Phila, Times.

OHIO POLITICAL MATTERS.

Among the names we hear mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomnation for Governor is that of the Hon. John W. Heisley, of Cleveland. It is asserted by some that he may be brought forward at the proper time as the candidate for the northeastern portion of the State, and if so, we shall probably hear it urged again that there has been no candidate for that office from that section of the State for over twenty-five years etc. It is probable that the multiplicity of candidates from the southern and cen-tral portions of the State has awakened the Democrats of the Western Reserve and that they intended to bring forward a candidate and profit by the strife among the present candidates, and thereby se cure the head of the ticket from their section of the State. Mr. Heisley is a gentleman of high legal attainments, an excellent speaker, and in every way well qualified for a candidate, and would make a most desirable Governor.-Columbu

JUDGE ISAAC C. COLLINS, of Cincinnati, is now talked of as a candidate for Gov ernor by some Democrats. The Judge will be remembered as the nominee of the Liberals for that position four years ago. He is now acting with the Democ racy, was a delegate to the St. Louis Convention, is a man of ability and strong reasoning power. He is the fourth candidate entered from Hamilton county Now bring out the "dark horse," in the person of Chilton A. White.—Plain Deal.

A MYSTERIOUS ROBBERY.

St. Louis, June 15.—The Times has a special from Mt. Vernon, Ill., which says that on Monday last the Mount Vernon National Bank shipped by Adams Ex-press a package containing eight thousand dollars to the Third National Bank of St. Louis. On Wednesday the Mt. Vernon Bank received a telegram from St. Louis, saying the package contained only pieces of drown wrapping paper cut to the size of bank notes.

The bank officers here say the package showed no evidence of having been tam-pered with, but it contained no money. The express people say the package was delivered to the bank here just as it was received by their agent at Mt. Vernon, the seals being intact and the wrapper being untouched. The cashier of the Mt. Vernon bank was here yesterday and said the wrapper and seals of the pack-age were the same as used by the bank here. There is a great mystery in the case, which is being investigated by both the bank and express officers.

EMPTY PROMISES VERY TIRESOME.—But fhe, Hayes, temporizes with the subject forther; if he contents himself merely with the enunciation of goody sentiments which bear no fruit of deeds, or if, like President Grant, he waits for Congress to legislate in aid of reform, and so surrenders the power of which it has been so long engaged in robbing the President, he must not be surprised if his experiment of reform proves as futile and ridiculous as that of his predecessor.—N.
